Testimonials of fitness and gelity will in every case be required-and bond with scurity for the faithful discharge of the trust. Applications to me, in Richmond, after the 20th inst., in persen or by letter, post-paid, will receive immediate atten-WILSON ALLEN,

Collector for the State of Virginia. The following Extract from the Constitution of the Society prescribes generally the duty of the Collectors:
-it shall be the business of each Collector, to call in rson or by honest and faithful deputies, to be appointby him, on all the white inhabitants of his collection strict, and receive from them such contributions in money as they may be inclined to grant, not exceeding one har each-to transmit the same at least once in every months to the Treasurer of the Society, or deposit he sums collected in some safe Bank in his collection estrict, to the credit of the Society. He shall also enter an Book the names of the contributors, and the amount natibuted by each—which shall be deposited in the dominent. And he shall make his final return, and se his collections in one year from the day of his appastment-unless the Board shall find it expedient to shad the time."

Issuactions to the Collectors of the Washington National Monument Society.

The Collector, or his Deputy, must call, in person, on erry white inhabitant of his collection district, whenner it is practicable, and obtain his or her contribution. usugh the highest sum to be contributed by cach indideal, is limited to one dollar, yet uny amount may be recired, provided the person subscribes for himself and family, or himself and others. Thus, " for self and famil-" self and others, $500." But any sum, however all, must be taken. The collector must procure a ank book, of convenient size, Svo. or 4to., bound in arocco, with the following printed caption at the comnencement, viz: "We, the undersigned, for the purpose et contributing to the erection of a great National Monu-ment, at the seat of the General Government, in honor of the Memory of Washington, and of promoting the Sircts of the Washington National Monument Society, established for that purpose, do subscribe the sums placed opposite our names respectively." Each page must conin three columns; one for the name, one for the place residence, and one for the amount. And as these ooks are to be transmitted to the Society, to be preeved in the Monument, and to go down to posterity, he name of the contributor must in every case, who racticable, be written by himself. An apartment in the bnument will be prepared to contain these books, which will be classed according to States, counties, towns, de. It is also the intention of the board, as well in justhe to the contributors as to insure the responsibility of the collectors, to publish their names, and the amount contributed by them, in each State. The printed sheet accompanying this, must be pasted on the inside of the cover of each subscription book. The collector, upon arizing in any city or village where there is a press, must apply to the Editor, and get him to publish an article recommending the object, and giving notice of his amival; and if there be no press, the accompanying address must be put up at some convenient place, where it may be read. The honorary members of the Society, in State, should be called on and requested to le their assistance, and to promote its objects by their infuence and recommendation.
It can be stated, that it is the design of the Society to eet the Monument in the Metropolis of the Nation, by the voluntary contributions of the people of that Na-ton: and that the whole amount of the collections, whatever they may be, will be expended on its construction. From a feeling of pride, and of patriotism, it is believed that no American can refuse his mite, or estate to lend his assistance toward the completion of an object which is to redound to the glory of the Repuband to do credit to the munificence and taste of the present age. It is an object in which all are interested oregard their own reputation and that of their country. the proposed, that the contemplated Monument shall be him in whose honor it is to be constructed, unparalbled in the world, and commensurate with the gratitude, lberahty and patriotism of the People by whom it is to be exceed. A premium will be offered by the Society, to the best design by an American Architect, and therefore no definite idea can as yet be given of the plan which may be adopted; but it is the wish of the Society, that it should blend stupendousness with elegance, and be of ach magnitude and beauty, as to be an object of pride to she American People, and of admiration to all who see it. material is intended to be wholly American, and to e of marble or granite brought from each State, that each State may participate in the glory of contributing material as well as in funds to its construction. Let each contributor consider it as a privilege and honor, asplaying his gratitude and veneration for the memory of Washington. Press upon him the importance of this great and noble effort; of the deep disgrace that would atlend its failure, and of the necessity of showing to the world, and to future ages, that the American People felt ther justly estimated the value of the guide father of their liberty and independence. estimated the value of the great services of

Deposits should be made as often as possible in some safe Bank, and the Treasurer apprized of it. Copies of the Constitution will be furnished to each collector and and his sub-agents, and all other information that may necessary for their government. Great diligence and exertion are expected from the collectors, that the largest possible amount may be obtained, and the foundation of the monument be laid within a short time. It is the wish of the Society, that it should be commenced within eight months, and completed within five or six GEO. WATTERSTON,

The following arrangement of Districts is made from Tanner's Map of 1529, and may not be judiciously arranged, but is subject to alteration, and will be arranged suit collectors. For the Western part of the State, I will, at times to be appointed, attend at Winchester, Sigunton, &c., to receive proposals from those who may wish to undertake as Collectors in that section of the State.

IN ICHMOND MEDICAL SCHOOL.—Lectures upbe delivered in the city of Richmond, commencing the last Monday in October, and ending the 1st of March Cumberland, on the north side of Appoinatiox river, and next. For that purpose, the following gentlemen have adjoining the lands of Messrs. James and Francis An-associated themselves together, and will teach the subects affixed to their respective names: TH. JOHNSON, M. D., Anatomy, Physiology, and Surgery.

JAMES BEALE, M. D., Practice of Physic, and the Institutes of Medicine. ROBERT BRIGGS, M. D., Materia Medica, Therapeutics and Hygiene. ROBERT W. HAXALL, M. D., Midwifery and the

Diseases of Women and Children. -, Chemistry and Pharmacy Although the Chair of Chemistry is not, as yet, assigned, it is believed that a Chemist of entire competency as a lecturer and practical operator, will accept this department before the course of lectures commences. The Chemical Apparatus belonging to one of the teachers, is complete, with very few exceptions. It was purchased in Europe, under the superintendence of Messrs. La last of October. Lectures will be delivered daily, by each teacher, except the teacher of Midwifery, who will lecture four times a week, giving the students, by that arrangement, an opportunity of attending Clinical Lectures twice per groix and Pixii; indeed, a considerable portion of it was made by M. Pixii. It will be in complete order by the week. One of the teachers spent several months in Paris during the last autumn and winter, making Anatomical and Surgical Preparations for the Museum, and purchased every important anatomical model and morbid specimen, which could be procured in that city. He is at present actively engaged, making preparations and models for the ensuing session of the Richmond Medical School -A very valuable collection of Surgical Instruments has been purchased, with which every surgical operation, from the most trivial to those of the greatest magnitude, will be exhibited; and the students will be permitted to perform all chirurgical operations upon the subjects in the dissecting rooms. It is expected that an assistant who is well qualified for such duties, will aid in the dissecting rooms, where the Teacher of Anatomy will attend three hours every evening to give instruction on Practical Anatomy. The anatomical facilities of Richmond and its vicinity are inferior to none in the U.S.

One of the above-named gentlemen is Physician to the Richmond Alms-House, where the students will have an opportunity, twice a week, or oftener, of hearing Clinical Lectures, feeling the pulse, applying the stethoscope, (to the use of which, one of the abovenamed gentlemen has paid special attention.) and making such other examinations of patients as the attending hysician may deem expedient to be instituted. There are many very respectable private boardinghooses in Richmond, where students can be accommodated on the most reasonable terms. The terms for the course will be $20 for each ticket.

August 14. BOANOKE LAND FOR SALE.—Designing to move to the South-West, I propose to sell the following valuable real estate : One tract of land, lying on the South side of Roanoke River, in the counties of Mecklenburg, Virginia, and Warren, North Carolina, 35 miles above Weldon and 16 above Wilkins' Ferry, containing 1,300 acres; of which, about 600 are bottom, of Goods has arrived at City Point, (James River,) and will superior quality-100 in original wood, and first-rate be in store and opened in a day or two. More will be plant land. Of the high land, about 100 acres only have been cleared; the balance is heavily timbered, and of good quality for the production of wheat and tobacco .-The improvements embrace every building necessary for a quarter plantation-mostly new, and in good order .-The tobacco barns are unusually good, built chiefly within the three years last past, and sufficient to secure a crop of 60,000 pounds. I can, with confidence, pronounce this one of the very best estates on the Roan of its extent, and few, if any, are in so good a situation e profitable planting. It is very convenient to the Petersburg and Richmond markets, and will short-ly be equally so to that of Norfolk, by means of the Pertsmouth Rail-road, now rapidly tending to its comple-tion. Excellent springs abound in all parts of the plantation-and I know it to be remarkably healthy, having resided on it, with my family, for two years. My Physician's bills for attendance on more than 60 negroes, have not exceeded 40 dollars for the last five years. Bloomsbury, my place of residence, lying on the waters of Smith's Creek, Warren county, N. Carolina, S miles West of the town of Warrenton, and 10 from Roanoke River, containing 1,500 acres. About one-half of this tract is in wood, and a fair proportion, say 200 acres, fine tobacco land. There are also 60 acres of highly-improved cotton lots, and 40 to 50 acres of creek bottom. The improvements are very extensive, well arranged, and slight repairs now being made, will put them in good order The situation is pleasant, and the neighborhood agreea-

One other tract, lying within half a mile of the Court-House of that large and wealthy county, Mecklenburg, Va., containing seven hundred and eighty-eight acres. The greater portion of this land is standing in original wood, and about one-half is of good quality, well adapted to the production of wheat and tobacco. It would furnish an agreeable and convenient residence to any gentleman having children to educate, being within a w minutes' walk of that flourishing Institution, Randolph Macon College, and a female school of high standing in Boydton.-Further description of these lands is deemed unnecessary, as it is presumed that those persons disposed to purchase will view them. Mr. Daniel T. Hicks will treat for the tract near Boydton.—Bad health obliges me to seek a milder climate, and I am, therefore, resolved on selling.-Letters addressed to me at Warrenton, N. Carolina, will receive prompt attention.

"The consideration that under the Judicial system of irginia, Chancery causes must often be decided withnt the benefit of Libraries, and a desire to make the volume useful beyond the limits of the State, have together induced me to give greater scope to it than its name imports. It is in truth, a treatise upon the principles of equity as well as the practice, and will prove, I think, a convenient book of reference to the practising lawyers in any portion of the Union. In it will be found the The whole establishment is under the immediate care and direction of Mrs. Shelley herself. She has heretoper to mention on account of their importance, er of the recent date at which they were made, and most of the Equity Decisions in the United States. The New York Reporters, Carnes, Johnson, Cowen, Windell, Hopkins and Paige, are cited nearly as often as those of Virginia. WILL OF JOHN RANDOLPH, OF ROANOKE. [CONTINUED.]

John C. Bryan, an infant, by John Coulter, his next friend, plaintiff, rs. William Mead and Frederick Hobson,

Committee of St. George Randolph, a person of unsound mind, defendants. The testimony having progressed thus far, a motion was made by the counsel for the defendants, for a writ of duces tecum to be directed to Wyat! Cardwell, for the testamentary papers, or parts of wills Marshall, as having been written by production of spoken of by Mr. Randolph, on the Sunday after the first Monday in April, 1832; also, the portable writing desk or portfolio, mentioned in the testimony of Winslow Robinson, and

The motion was opposed by the counsel on the other important witness in the case, and had not been ex-amined, and as he would be obliged to go to Charlotte Court-house for the papers, &c., they might be deprived of his evidence.

After considerable discussion, the Court decided that Mr. Cardwell's testimony should first be taken, and the writ of duces tecum then granted.

WYATT CARDWELL sworn .- Had known Mr. R. since is earliest recollection; but never had any transactions with him until after his return from Russia. heard him make his speech at Charlotte Court-House .seemed clear and rational, and witness was pleased to find, as he did by the speech, that Mr. R was entirely himself. Mr. R was naturally infirm, a great sufferer, and of an irritable temper; but on that occasion, he eemed cool, and free from excitement. Witness's first and stealing. John, his body servant, who had charge transaction with Mr. R. was respecting two fillies of Mr. R.'s, which witness had bought of Judge Leigh as his his master, would get drunk, and had the opportunity agent. Mr. R. came to witness's house, and finally it of doing so constantly. Mr. R. said he would not only was agreed that the fillies should be returned, as he wish use his liquors himself, but would waste and give them was agreed that the fillies should be returned, as he wished it. On the morning after this, witness overtook and passed Mr. R. at Capt. Morton's, on his way to Prince Edward Court House. Mr. R. was getting into his chair, the reason why Mr. R. turned him out into the as witness came up. Mr. R. asked Capt. M.'s permission to give his servant some money, saying that it was exceedingly improper to give a gentleman's servant money without his permission. Mr. R. drove up to witness shortly after, and they rode in company. He conversed much with witness-said the roads in Virginin were the worst that he had ever seen in his jor's son. He replied, that that sustained the declaration he had made, that we were depreciating in every thing. He said we were not the men our fathers wereand went on enumerating many instances of sons of the present day being inferior to their fathers. They went on to P. Edward Ct. House, and in the speech delivered there by Mr. R. he repeated all that he had said to witness on the road. Witness heard the speech .- Mr. R. alluded to many of his friends and acquaintances in some what harsh terms. He referred to many families of the first respectability, comparing the present generation with their fathers, to prove a position he had taken, that the race had degenerated. For instance, he alluded to he got witness to whip Johnny: it was about the time old Col. Joel Watkins, one of the most respectable men of his day; and said that his sons, although very respect-Witness heard this remark of Mr. R.'s alluded to a few days after, as a severe attack upon Capt. Henry A. Watkins, and thought such an impression ought to be corrected, as he knew that Mr. R. had not spoken disres-Mr. Marshall or witness mentioned it to Mr. R., he does not know that Betsy, the cook, was ever sent off. But the information gave rise to the letot recollect. dence by the latter.

After the speech at Prince Edward, witness did not see Mr. R. until the 29th Nov., when (having received a note from him on the 25th) witness went up to Roancke. Witness remained some time, and was much inteed, on that day, to be in good temper and free from all after some time, witness agreed to engage, if he would excitement. He had sent for witness, to request him to allow him to live at home. go to Richmond and offer his (Mr. R.'s) horses for sale; hick witness consented to do. Did not see him again about his house. From that time until the day of Mr. R.'s death, witness's visits to Mr. R. were frequent .-For some time his excitement increased, and at last he would scarcely do any business without the assistance Witness saw the reason of his conduct before long, having discovered that he was in the habit of using ardent spirits in the form of toddy, to excess, drinking copiously at night. In the lat-ter part of the winter, he would begin at night, and drink from a pint to a quart of toddy before morning. Perhaps some of his friends would come in the next day. when he would say to them that he was not accustomed he would take a glass with them at the risk of his life. When he drank in presence of witness, he used to say, that it was necessary to drive the cramp out his stomach -that it was essential to the preservation of his lifeand that he should die without it. During the latter part of March for the last time previous to his removal to the Court-house, he was so weak, that in attempting to to the Court-house, he was so weak, that mess, who took him rise, he fell, and was caught by witness, who took him the day on which Mr. Palmer moved off, Mr. R. requesting his arms and carried him to bed. Mr. R. then did what he had not done before,—requested witness not to what he had not done before,—requested witness not to go ment again unless sent for by him. come again unless sent for by him.

Some time in the latter part of April, Mr. R. came to to the house of Mr. Marshall, at the Court house. After remaining there a few days, he requested witness to get carriage and take him to witness' house. Witness At that time his mind seemed to be very much npaired; his memory seemed to have left him entire-Wieness got him to his house, and into a room, and that room alive. He seemed shortly to become insensi- R. said he knew the road, but had gone a long distance ble to every thing that was going on about him, and lay for about three weeks in a perfectly helpless state. Witness had changed the position of his bed, and he said if that had not been done, he should not have witness what proved not to be a fact. It was in relation he said if that had not been done, he should not have waked so soon. He said, to use his own expression, "that his polarity was wrong"—and that he faced a stair-case where he could see the devila going up and coming down at all hours of the day and night. From that time, until the latter part of Jane, he remained at witness' house, the latter part of Jane, he remained at witness house, five or six times between November and February. Witness, therefore, drave for him .-From the 10th of May to the latter part of June, he was perfectly sane. He seemed pleased with the attention witness had paid to him, as he had done his best to make sion. The papers were examined in his presence; he him comfortable, and had made all allowances for his has never seen them, except in the presence of the genondition. He did not drink during the period last stated: he had cooled out, after laying about twenty days in a state of apparent torpor, and seemed to have no disposition to drink up to the time of his going home. He had almost every day some fever, and used morphine at all times; and when under the influence of that and the witness. fever, he was a little flighty. Witness was satisfied from the first, that he took opium, and when he went to Mr. R.'s house, he had a small phial which he shewed wit-ness; and on one occasion, he called it poison, saying that he had an unpleasant disagreement with Robt. Carrington, and talked of making an attack upon him, and if he ton, and talked of making an attack upon mm, and if he should shoot Carrington, he would take a dose of that, and put himself out of the way. On one occasion, witness suggested that Carrington had no disposition to carry on the controversy about the road, and Mr. R. ex-pressed a willingness to settle the matter, if Mr. C. would do what was right. Witness went out and told Carrington that Mr. R. would be glad to see hiw. Does not recollect when that happened.

After Mr. R. recovered from his attacks at witness's house, he inquired after all his old friends, and requested witness to ask them to come and see him. Witness went to Buckingham Court-House about that time, and Mr. R. gave him a written list of friends to whom he wished his compliments to be presented-but requested him not to show it, as he might have omitted some. He continued generally calm until September, when his habit of drinking toddy to excess returned.

Some time between the 1st of December, 1331, and the middle of January, witness had a special conversation with Mr. R., on the subject of his slaves. He said it was once his determination to set them free, but that he had given it up, and he gave witness his reasons for it. said that, much as the English papers and the Northern fanatics talked of the condition of the blacks, they were happier and better provided for than the laboring classes in Europe, particularly in Ireland. He said, the condition of negro's was annually improved in Virginia; and that in the hands of good masters, they were the happiest beings in the world. About the 1st of March, he told witness that he had made a will, providing for the along about him and had had been been been about him. for the slaves about him, and his brother Harry was to be their nominal master-and this Will would have been carried into effect, but in consequence of their bad conduct he had destroyed it in the presence of the servants. He did not tell witness the date of it. Thinks he said its provisions were confined to the domestics about his house. The Will sent to Judge Tucker was made while witness was in Richmond. Never heard him say any thing of the contents of that Will, or whether got it back or destroyed it. Thinks it was in December or early in January, that Mr. R. told witness he had requested Mr. Bryan not to visit him, for reasons best known to himself-and which he mentioned afterwards He said it was not that the young man had offended him, as would be seen by his Will at his death—but that ide, mainly on the ground, that as Mr. Cardwell was an the affair was going on between him and Mr. Carring ton, and Mr. Bryan might be involved in it. From the Fall of 1832, until he left for Philadelphia, thinks Mr. R was in a sane state of mind. Witness saw him frequenty, either at his own or Mr. R.'s house. Witness was there often, as in his frolics with his servants it was ne-

> The principal cause of Mr. R.'s displeasure with his negroes was, that during his absence they had made no crops. Witness does not know the reason for it, but they did not make a crop during that time. Witness purchased 250 bbls. corn for Mr. R. during the winter of 1831-32; and he must have paid during that period for provisions. His negroes and overseers did not expect him home, and had therefore neglected their duties -He was displeased with his house servants for drinking of the keys, and whose services were most essential to to others. Between the 1st of November and the 1st of the reason why Mr. R. turned him out into the field, and took another servant into the house. In the month of December, witness began to give out provisions, &c., for Mr. R. was always in the habit of drinking. Questioned whether Mr. R. ever detected John in a travels; that every thing among us was depreciating.— theft—Says he did. Thinks it was in May or June, when they came to the house which formerly belonged when John dropped some suspicions in witness's house to Quin Morton, he observed that the fencing was bad, going to criminate Mr. Griffin in having taken some of and asked if Major Spencer, the present owner, had come Mr. R.'s money. He hinted this to Mrs. Cardwell, who and asked if Major Spencer, the present owner, had come to that. Witness told him that it was owned by the Masomething further was found out. He was shortly after told by one of his servants, that some bad conduct was going on between John and another of witness's servants that they were in the bobit of gambling, and that John was using his master's money. Witness ascertained or inquiry, that John had gambled away about $70 in the Witness ascertained on neighborhood. Witness apprised Mr. Randolph of the information he had received. Mr. Randolph said he had no doubt of the fact, but could not say how much had been taken from him. He did not know what amount he had by him when he was taken sick, but when he recovered, he had but little left. At a subsequent period, when he went to Buckingham to offer his resolutions, in February, 1833. Mr. R. sent for witness to whip able men, were not to be compared with their father .- John, and stated that his having taken the money was one of the causes It was almost twelve months after the offence before he had John punished. He had committed some other offence, and Mr. R. included both in the punishment. Witness at first refused to whip John, pectfully of Capt. Watkins. Witness spoke of it to Mr. but Mr. R. got his horsewhip, and said if witness did Marshall, and suggested to him the propriety of information not, he would. Witness then complied, and gave John ing Mr. R. of the interpretation which had been given to a few stripes, which did not hurt him. Saw that Mr. R. his remarks in relation to Capt. Watkins. Whether, was pleased that witness did not whip him severely; did was John's wife, and Mr. R. took her into the kitchen that John should have no excuse for being away. ness was not in the employment of Mr. R. in 1831, or until biny, 1832. He had, during that time, transacted much of Mr. R.'s business, and when he wanted him he sent for him. He offered witness the agency of his esrested by Mr. R.'s conversation. He related a number it. He said if witness would become his agent, he would of anecdotes relative to his voyage to Russia, and seem-

It was in December when witness first discovered that Mr. R. was in the habit of drinking gin toddy. It amusuntil about the 16th of December, having been absent to Richmond about ten days. He then seemed somewhat excited, and in rather an ill humor with the domestics Messis. Anderson and Marshall came up to see him on Messis. Anderson and Marshall came up to see him on one occasion when he had been drinking. He told them that he did not drink at all, but would take a glass with them-said he would have a real dinner, and drink wine with them. He displayed evident marks of dissipation, his coat being covered with feathers, and witness won dered his visitors did not discover his condition. Witness did not discover any marks of insanity in Mr. R. from Nov., 1831, to Feb., 1832. In March, Mr. Marshall on his return from Mr. R.'s, said that his mind was entirely gone, which was the first time witness had any idea of his being deranged. He thought he had conducted himself more strangely than usual, the visit beto drinking, that it was injurious to his health, but that fore, when he told witness not to visit him until he sent for him. Witness had never spoken of Mr. R.'s conduct to any one, because there was much curiosity in relation to him, and every thing he said or did was much commented on. Witness saw also that he did not wish his habit of drinking to be known, as he kept it part of January or the early part of February, his habits from Mr. Marshall, one of his best friends. It is a curbecame worse. When witness visited him in the latter ous fact, that when Mr. R. was intoxicated he would abuse all his friends who were addicted to the same fault. There was no better sign, that he was in that condition than his commencing to abuse others for drinking. On the day on which Mr. Palmer moved off, Mr. R. request-for him, and that he did not wish to be the keeper of any man's money. He sent a servant with the message.—

The house servants were sent out temporarily, and were brought in again. John probably remained two or three weeks at Dan River. Do not know what was the offence for which he was sent away; but Mr. R. generally complained of his getting drunk. Heard Mr. R. frequently consure John for laying been so locaten the read quently censure John for having been so long on the road e remarked then that Mr. R. would never come out of to Fredericksburg when he went for the Jennies-Mr. out of his way. Knew that Mr. R was advised to drink ass' milk, and John was sent for Jennies to supply it.

Witness saw no indications of insanity in Mr. R., dury ing the winter, and the idea did not enter his mind until Had no intimacy with Mr. R. until after his return from Russia. Witness has acted as Curator of the estate since tlemen who examined them. Questioned by Mr. Jones .- Mr. Randolph was irritable when opposed in conversation; but witness did not excite him, and was guarded in his remarks, avoiding all irritable topics; and Mr. R. never spoke a harsh word to When under the influence of toddy, he exhibited more excitement than ordinary men. Mr. R. was very much attached to Judge Leigh, and always spoke of him in the kindest terms; and when he was making the contract with witness, he said he had great confidence in Judge L .- that he was the greatest lawyer in Virginia, but he was not able to transact the business of his (Mr. R.'s) estate-that he had allowed his negroes to injure his property-and that Judge L. did not conduct his own affairs, which were superintended

by Mrs. Leigh.

Question by the Court. Did Mr. R.'s drinking affect his temper, or his judgment, or both?

Answer. It affected his temper only. It destroyed his memory at last; and when he came to witness house, he was in a state of lassitude and torpor. Witness thinks the excitement he saw Mr. R. display in December, was caused by liquor. Questioned by Mr. Robinson. Do you consider Judge Leigh and Mr. Marshall as capable as yourself to draw conclusions as to the soundness of Mr. R.'s mind? Answer. They are doubtless better capable; but I saw Mr. R. oftener than they, during the winter, as he sent for me frequently.

Witness does not recollect to have heard Mr. R. speak of having seen devils until after he came to witness house.

Mr. Cadwell's testimony having closed, the writ of duces tecum was ordered by the Court, and Mr. C. left Richmond for Charlotte Court-house, to bring back the papers before referred to .- Whig.
